

EQUALITY AND CIVIL RIGHTS IN IRELAND

The Green Party believes in equality and fairness.
In Government, we have:

- Introduced the Civil Partnership Bill – providing legal protection and rights for people in same-sex relationships for the first time ever in Ireland
- Protected the Equality Authority from being merged and marginalised
- Clamped down on tax exiles
- Secured €62m for homeless services in 2010 despite budget cutbacks

EQUALITY AND CIVIL RIGHTS IN IRELAND

The Green Party believes in equality and fairness.
In Government, we have:

- Introduced the Civil Partnership Bill – providing legal protection and rights for people in same-sex relationships for the first time ever in Ireland
- Protected the Equality Authority from being merged and marginalised
- Clamped down on tax exiles
- Secured €62m for homeless services in 2010 despite budget cutbacks

The Green Party believes in equality and fairness for all in society. Often those that can't be heard are in need of the most help. That's why we increased the homelessness budget this year by 5%, despite cuts elsewhere. We have also protected the existence of the Equality Authority at a time when other State bodies are being merged.

We now have a Green Party Minister for Equality, Integration and Human Rights Mary White; the first time such responsibilities have been brought together. A new Ministerial Council has been established to give Ireland's migrants a clear voice for identifying the challenges and issues facing them.

"More has happened in the last two years to redistribute wealth than has occurred in the previous 25 years" John Fitzgerald, ESRI, May 2010

The Green Party has also worked hard to:

- Limit any reductions to social welfare rates
- Introduce a more progressive tax system with a greater burden falling on the wealthiest and those that pollute the environment
- Clamp down on tax reliefs and exemptions for 'tax exiles'

JOIN TODAY !

To be a part of the most inclusive and progressive party in Ireland go to www.greenparty.ie

The Green Party believes in equality and fairness for all in society. Often those that can't be heard are in need of the most help. That's why we increased the homelessness budget this year by 5%, despite cuts elsewhere. We have also protected the existence of the Equality Authority at a time when other State bodies are being merged.

We now have a Green Party Minister for Equality, Integration and Human Rights Mary White; the first time such responsibilities have been brought together. A new Ministerial Council has been established to give Ireland's migrants a clear voice for identifying the challenges and issues facing them.

"More has happened in the last two years to redistribute wealth than has occurred in the previous 25 years" John Fitzgerald, ESRI, May 2010

The Green Party has also worked hard to:

- Limit any reductions to social welfare rates
- Introduce a more progressive tax system with a greater burden falling on the wealthiest and those that pollute the environment
- Clamp down on tax reliefs and exemptions for 'tax exiles'

JOIN TODAY !

To be a part of the most inclusive and progressive party in Ireland go to www.greenparty.ie